

CREGO & PELTON, General Hardware, Stoves, Paints, Oils, Varnishes, Etc.

During the comparatively short time Crego & Pelton have been in business in Gaylord they have made remarkable strides to the fore, and today are operating an establishment second to none in importance in this part of the country. These gentlemen came here from Ellsworth where they were engaged in the same business, and from the start their trade here has been phenomenal.

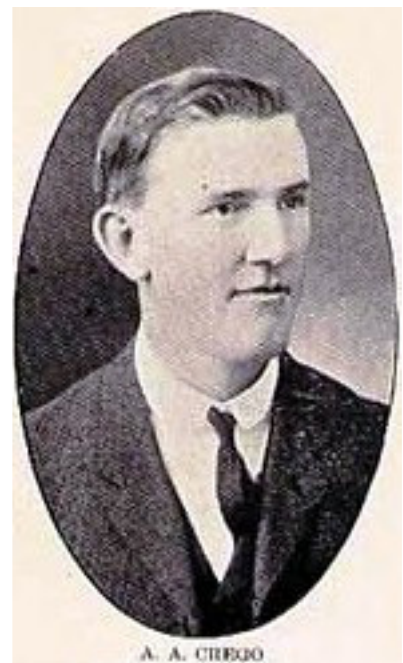

Mr. W. J. Crego of the firm has charge of large lumbering interests nine miles east of Gaylord on the McGraw branch.

Mr. John L. Pelton has charge of the store, which is completely stocked with everything pertaining to the hardware trade. They do an enormous business in builders' hardware, paints, oils, varnishes, etc., carry a fine line of stoves and ranges, sporting goods, including guns and ammunition.

Both Mssrs. Crego and Pelton are enterprising progressive business men and their success is due to their splendid business qualifications. They are fraternal men of high standing and belong to nearly all the Gaylord lodges.
