

Luke Dubber, Trustee

Our esteemed citizen, Luke Dubber, is an Englishman by birth, and thirty years ago was living with his parents in Cuyahoga county, Ohio. About that time of life he was seized with a desire to go north into the lumber woods of Michigan, and the winter of 1875 saw him in Otsego County with cant hook and axe in hand ready to hew out a home in the wilderness. How well he has hewn is evidenced by a walk down East Main street by his spacious grounds and fine residential property. Among other additional property he has acquired is a valuable 80 acre farm adjoining the village on the east. As a land looker and timber estimator he stands high, and his services are in constant demand. At present he is in the employ of Gaylord branch of the Dayton Lumber Block Works, and is also a member of the Village Council, and withal is a man of good nature and ever zealous for the up building of town and county.
