

J. B. Scott, Farmer, Potato Buyer and Deputy Sheriff

J. B. Scott – there are few citizens in Otsego County who do not know “Bert” – is a farmer and potato buyer, filling in his spare time by discharging the duties of deputy sheriff. “Bert’s” farm is but a short distance east of town and is among the best tilled in the county, his potato and hay crop bearing evidence of his ability as a tiller of the soil. A half-acre of his cozy home on East Main Street will be found on another page. He is largely interested in timber and farming lands throughout this section, and a firm believer in Otsego County, the land of the big potato. Mr. Scott is a Mason and takes a deep interest in the doings of the local lodge and chapter.
